

Jessica Davis, PharmD
PGY2 Critical Care Resident

Education: University of Kentucky College of Pharmacy, PGY1 Pharmacy Residency at UofL Health – UofL Hospital

About Me: I am originally from Louisville, Kentucky and attended the University of Kentucky for undergrad and my PharmD degree. I also recently completed a PGY1 residency here at UofL Health – UofL Hospital. UofL Health inspires me through their focus on patient-centered care, supportive and fun environment, and commitment to helping their residents become well-rounded clinical pharmacists. I am ecstatic to continue my training as a PGY2 in critical care here! My current clinical interests include sedation/delirium, trauma/surgery, and pediatric intensive care. In my free time, I like to play with my German Shepherd puppies and teach Cyclebar® spin classes.

Danielle Eskens, PharmD
PGY2 Oncology Pharmacy Resident

Education: East Tennessee State University – Bill Gatton College of Pharmacy

About Me: Originally from Minnesota, I moved to the small town of Hanover, Indiana to attend Hanover College for undergrad. After Hanover, I attended pharmacy school in Tennessee at ETSU – Bill Gatton College of Pharmacy. During my time as a student I developed a passion for clinical pharmacy and providing for underserved communities. The dedication to providing for diverse, underserved patients is one of the many reasons I chose UofL for residency. I am excited to continue for a second year in oncology and building strong relationships with providers in multiple disciplines. My clinical interests include solid tumors, hematologic malignancies, anticoagulation, and nutrition. Outside of pharmacy I enjoy spending time with loved ones (including my corgi Rosie), traveling, and playing board games.

David Kaylor, PharmD
PGY2 Internal Medicine Pharmacy Resident

Education: Butler University College of Pharmacy and Health Sciences

About Me: I am from Noblesville, Indiana and pursued my PharmD at Butler University where I completed both my undergraduate and graduate courses. I was drawn to the academic culture within UofL Hospital. I wanted to get experience working within an academic hospital as well as a system of hospitals and UofL Hospital and UofL Health offered that combination of experiences. There is a variety of opportunities for growth and the program offered incredible support during the transition from student to licensed pharmacist. At Butler University, I developed a passion for antimicrobial stewardship and patient care research, and I found that UofL Hospital not only cultivated those passions but also helped expose me to new areas of interest as well. I'm incredibly excited for a second year here in internal medicine! My current clinical interests include infectious diseases, anticoagulation, cardiology, as well as expanding pharmacy services and improving medication access for patients. Outside of pharmacy, I enjoy playing beach volleyball with my co-residents, listening to music and playing guitar, and exploring the restaurants around Louisville.

Tori Penick, PharmD
PGY2 Ambulatory Care Pharmacy Resident

Education: University of Kentucky College of Pharmacy, PGY1 Pharmacy Residency: Norton Healthcare

About Me: I am originally from Louisville, KY and received my PharmD degree at the University of Kentucky. My passion for ambulatory care began right here at our outpatient pharmacy, where I completed my first IPPE rotation as a student. I am very excited to be back and for the opportunity to further my post-graduate training specializing in ambulatory care. My current interests include geriatrics, chronic disease state management, population health, transitions of care, and palliative care. In my free time I enjoy kayaking, trying new restaurants, going to farmers markets, and hanging out with my husband and our cat (George).

Casey Venable, PharmD
PGY2 Emergency Medicine Pharmacy Resident

Education: University of Mississippi School of Pharmacy (Ole Miss)

About Me: I am originally from Chester, Illinois and attend Ole Miss for both undergraduate and pharmacy school. While at Ole Miss, I earned a B.S. in Pharmaceutical Sciences and a PharmD. I completed my PGY1 pharmacy practice residency at UofL Health – UofL Hospital. I entered residency with an interest in emergency medicine and critical care, and after incredible learning experiences in both practice areas I decided to pursue a PGY2 in emergency medicine. I chose to stay at UofL Hospital due to the outstanding preceptors and the unmatched learning experiences. The preceptors create an encouraging and supportive learning environment and continue to push me to be the best pharmacist that I can be. UofL Hospital is a designated level 1 trauma center, certified burn center, and a comprehensive stroke center offering exposure to a variety of different patient populations in the emergency department and critical care units. In my free time I enjoy spending time with my wife, my 2-year old golden retriever (Murphy), and my co-residents/friends, watching sports (especially cheering on the Reds), watching a good movie/tv show, playing sports, and getting a bite to eat at the great local restaurants.

Kelly Weaver, PharmD
PGY2 Oncology Pharmacy Resident

Education: Purdue University College of Pharmacy

About Me: I grew up in Noblesville, IN, graduated pharmacy school from Purdue University, and completed my PGY1 residency here at UofL Hospital. Initially, the variety of learning opportunities, integration of pharmacists onto the medical team, and supportive teaching environment attracted me to University of Louisville Hospital. Since beginning my professional journey at UofL, I have seen firsthand how valued the profession of pharmacy is within the hospital and how committed each member of the pharmacy department is to my professional growth. I am so excited to have the opportunity to continue my training at UofL as a PGY2 oncology resident! Outside of pharmacy, I enjoy reading, playing board games, trying Louisville restaurants, and playing fetch with my kitten.
